Cable is here! Barden 'turns on' Romulus

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus finally has cable television!

After what seemed to some residents an endless wait, the first Romulus homes have been wired for and are receiving cable TV, courtesy of Barden Cablevision of Romulus.

The official dedication for the system took place on Saturday, as hundreds gathered to celebrate the coming of cable to the community. Speakers included John Barden, Barden's regional business operations manager; Tim Cusick, regional general manager; Mayor Beverly McAnally; and Don Barden, the corporate president.

Romulus is the third operating system for Barden, with Inkster and Van Buren already receiving the service. Barden also has the rights to wire the city of Detroit.

Speaking of the Romulus franchise in a letter, Don Barden stated that "while being cooperative, the mayor and city council have insisted that this city receive a first class system at a fair price to its citizens. We have achieved both."

McAnally, an advocate of the pay-television service says she has "worked for five years to get cable into Romulus, and it's just fantastic that it's coming together."

According to McAnally, she fields more questions about cable than anything else.

"I'm happy for the people of Huron Estates (the first section of the city to be hooked up) and I'm anticipating the same for the rest of the city as it is wired," said McAnally.

"Mr. Barden has 18 months from last February to complete the entire city, and I have no reason to think it won't be done by then or even before then."

McAnally expressed interest in utilizing the cable services to reach homeowners with direct news regarding things like street cleanings and snow plow schedules.

"Cable is a fantastic way to communicate immediately with people, it's great," McAnally said, adding her hope that before too long, Barden Cablevision will be broadcasting city council meetings to area homes, thereby giving those that don't make it to meetings a chance to see their government in action.

The Romulus system will have 60 channels available for See CABLE, Page A-3

It's official

Going up City has construction boom

Things are really hopping in Romulus as far as new construction goes, and much of it is due - at least in part - to the efforts of the Romulus Economic Development Corporation.

The following projects are either started or are in the planning stages in the city of Romulus:

- DST Industries Automotive Division, an owned subsidiary of Apollo Corporation, is currently erecting a 50,000-square foot addition at its present building on Goddard Road. The addition is funded by $1,000,000 in Industrial Revenue Bonds, through the Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

- National Properties of Southfield has received a $30,000,000 inducement resolution from City Council for a large hotel and office complex to be located in the Romulus Regional Center near Metro Airport.

- Marcus Corporation of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has an EDC inducement resolution for $2,000,000 to build a 103-room motel at the Regional Center.

- Beacon Corporation of Boston, Massachusetts, has an EDC resolution of $11,000,000 to build a 7-story motel at the Regional Center.

- General Motors Aviation is building an office addition and alterations to an existing hangar in the Metro Airport area. The hangar was formerly owned by American Airlines.

- Marriot Corporation of Washington, D.C., has bought the Host International Hotel at Metro Airport and will be upgrading the facility at a cost of $1,000,000.

- American Airlines is building a $65,000 addition to a hangar at Metro Airport.

- Trans Overseas Corporation of Romulus is constructing a new 30,000-square foot facility in the city. The $750,000 complex is being financed through EDC revenue bonds.

Romulus High Jazz Band to perform in Montreaux fest

The Romulus Senior High School Jazz Band will perform at the internationally prestigious Montreaux Jazz Festival in Detroit on Labor Day Weekend. The band, under the direction of Henry James, earned the honor by receiving a number one rating at the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association Jazz Competition, held at Utica Eisenhower High School in April.

Over the past six years the Jazz program at Romulus High School has grown from a seven-member class to 22-member Jazz ensembles. The combined Jazz Bands will perform on Friday, Aug. 31, at 1 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 1, at 11:30 a.m. at the "Show Wagon" in Detroit's Hart Plaza. The general public is invited to attend and support the young musicians during this honorary occasion.

Police charge mother with shooting her son

A 51-year-old Romulus woman was released on $50,000 bond last week after being charged with shooting her 33-year-old son three times.

According to police, John Williams Jr., of Detroit, had gone to see his mother, Jewel Hearst of Vinewood Street, to apologize for an argument the preceeding week. The woman reportedly ordered the man to leave, and had her 12-year-old daughter run next door to call the police when it appeared to her he would not leave.

Police say that according to Williams, he said he would leave, but asked if he could finish his coffee first. He said that she answered that would be OK. Hearst denied that.

Williams alleged that while he was drinking his coffee, his mother left the room and came back in with a rifle and fired. Reportedly, Williams told police that he was "just sitting there drinking my coffee, I heard something, and the next thing I know, I'm shot!"

Police said that five rounds were fired from the .22 rifle in the house, one of them striking Williams. As he fled from the house, he reportedly was shot at five or six more times and was struck twice more.

According to police, Williams was wounded in one shoulder, his arm, and was grazed by a third bullet in the chin area. Still being pursued, he allegedly hailed a taxi cab in the vicinity of Vinewood and Wayne and took it to a friend's house, where police caught up with him and rushed him to Westland Medical Center (formerly Wayne County General).

Hearst told police she was afraid of Williams and thought that he was going to do something to her or her daughter, and that was the reason she sent the little girl to the neighbor's house.

Hearst was charged with assault with intent to murder, and felony with a firearm. She was arraigned before Judge Henry Zaborowski and released on $50,000 bail. Her preliminary examination is set for Wednesday.

Bogus scare 'bombs' at City Hall

Romulus City Hall was evacuated for nearly three hours Monday after a male caller told the switchboard operator that a bomb had been planted on the premises.

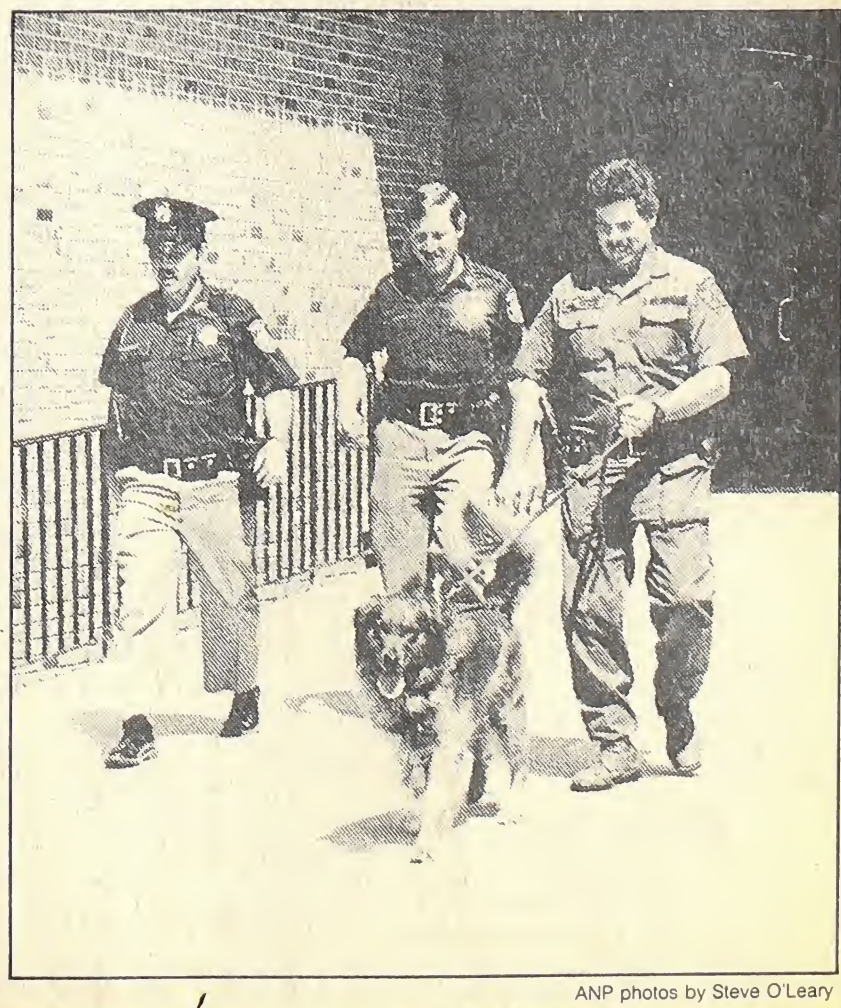

At precisely 11:59 a.m. the on-duty operator, Frances Zilka, had a caller tell her "there's a bomb in your building."

According to Zilka, she quickly called the police department and informed the mayor's office and the rest of the people inside the building.

Magic, the bomb-sniffing canine came from Flat Rock with his trainer, Michigan State Police Officer Laurie McDonald. Magic, McDonald and Romulus Policemen Eric Painter and William Davenport checked out the building as "a precautionary measure."

There was no trace of a bomb.

A child's dream

It's something every child dreams of... meeting Shamu the killer whale in person. Four-year-old Cherise Yarbrough of Romulus did just that during her recent visit to Sea World in Aurora, Ohio. Cherise was introduced to the two-ton performer by trainer JoAnne Webber during a performance of "The Shamu Experience." This dramatic show emphasizes the majesty and beauty of killer whales, and the relationship they share with their trainers. Sea World, located 20 miles southeast of Cleveland, is open daily now through Sept. 9.

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club was well represented at the National Convention (BPW/USA) held in Nashville, Tenn., July 22-26.
As a delegate, Sophie Zoller actively participated in the BPW/USA internal and external political process. She cast her vote on the upcoming political agenda for 1984-85, which included the issues of discrimination in employment practices; increase of women in elected and appointed positions in government; equal treatment under the law and workplace of the future.
"It is very exciting to be so actively involved in the women's movement," Zoller said.
The Belleville BPW is part of a nationwide network of 3,500 local organizations that make up the BPW/USA National Federation. The Belleville's BPW was chartered in 1938, and in conjunction with the National Federation works to promote full participation, equity and economic self-sufficiency for working women.
Highlight of the business session of the national convention was a phone call from Geraldine Ferraro, Democratic nominee for vice president.
The bylaws of the BPW/USA states it is an organization which is nonsectarian, non-partisan and non-profit. The convention body could not endorse Ferraro, however, so a resolution was passed to commend, honor and congratulate her for her untiring dedication for women's legal justice, leadership in the U.S. Congress and for opening the doors for women to obtain nomination to the second highest office in the United States.

Members from Belleville BPW who attended the Convention were Sophie Zoller, Bonnie Pavlat, Mabel Hall, Vira McGrane, Irene Christie and Midge Artley. Also, two guests, from the Belleville area attended the activities, Bev Lundell and Lou Antonini.

Astronaut Robert Gibson delivered an informative address and showed pictures aboard the Capsule which were the property of NASA. He urged young women to emphasize science and math in their education to prepare for the ongoing space program.
Author Paula Nelson gave a special address on her best selling book, "The Joy of Money." Nelson shared 10 principles of financial success with the convention body.
All of the business sessions were held at the Opryland Hotel, use, with 44 in use from the start and the remaining for future satellite services.

Basic cable, without any of the "premium" channels, such as HBO, Playboy or the Movie Channel, will run $7.50 a month, plus $2 for the rental of the remote control unit.

For that basic price, viewers can watch ESPN (sports), MTV (music), and many other channels. Also, when cable is connected, reception on all channels usually is better than that received with an antenna.

Premium stations run $9.95 a month per. Those available at this time are HBO, Playboy, Cinemax, The Movie Channel, The Disney Channel and Showtime.

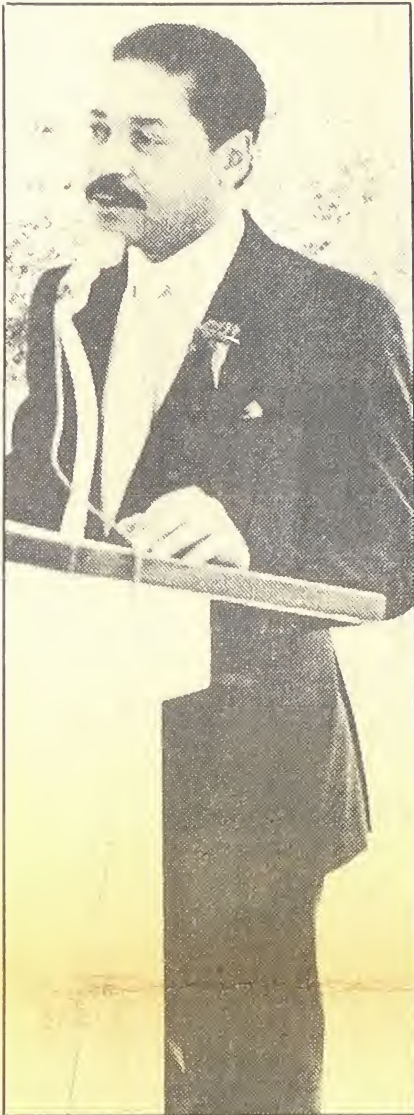

So far, the only part of Romulus able to be hooked up is the Huron Estates subdivision. The wiring will reportedly move east from there.

While it's true that most surrounding communities already have cable television, none match the service that will be provided Romulus residents via Barden Cablevision of Romulus — at least that's what they say. Politicians, community leaders and those that just don't want to miss a party — even one taking place in a tent while the rain poured from the heavens as it did Saturday evening, gathered at the site of the company's Romulus headquarters. Barden Cablevision President Don Barden called it "the beginning of a continuing healthy relationship." Cable is now available in the Huron Estates subdivision. It will be available for the entire city by next summer.

BFI may be out of county waste management plan

Even though it has been labeled "very unlikely" that the proposed "Airport" landfill by BFI Industries in Huron Township would ever see the light of day, actions taken last week indicate it will probably be removed entirely from the county "masterplan," which will be approved by the Wayne County Commissioners later this month.

According to Jim Kosteva, who sits on the Solid Waste Planning Committee, a motion was made by Milt Mack, a county commissioner who also has a seat on the planning committee, to remove the BFI site from the plan before it is handed over for the commissioners approval and going on the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

"The committee was ready to act on the plan, but Mack offered a resolution to remove it from the plan. According to the law, if the county commissioners want any changes made on the plan, they have to refer it to the planning committee.

"In my opinion, the vote will be to remove it," said Kosteva.

The plan is expected to receive final approval from the Wayne County Commissioners on Aug. 23, after which it will be released to all of the 51 communities involved and they will vote to approve or deny the plan.

Mahalak earns Medal of Merit

Upon an official order of Governor James J. Blanchard, Major General Vernon J. Andrews, Adjutant General of the Michigan National Guard, Department of Military Affairs, presented the State Legion of Merit Award to State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus).

The coveted award was presented to Mahalak on Friday, July 27, at the Michigan National Guard Annual Review of Camp Grayling.

"This honor bestowed to Rep. Mahalak, one of the few civilians ever to receive the State Legion of Merit Award, is well deserved," Blanchard said.

"During the past twenty years, Rep. Mahalak has demonstrated a keen interest in the Michigan National Guard and has played a particularly important role in improving the effectiveness of the Guard."

Rep. Mahalak's many years of affiliation with the Department of Military Affairs on military and appropriating matters has had a most significant and positive impact on the Michigan National Guard. His key role in sponsoring and effecting legislation to improve state retirement benefits for National Guard members is but one of a number of initiatives Mahalak has taken on behalf of Michigan's citizen soldiers.

Nearly 5,000 troops were on hand for the review and presentation.

Rep. Mahalak resides with his wife, Dolly, in the city of Romulus and he represents the 37th House District.

Scholarship

The newly established "Richard Colina Memorial Scholarship" offers $2,500 to an incoming Michigan State University freshman from any one of 27 designated schools within the service area of the Central Distributors of Beer, Inc. in Romulus.

The scholarship, a memorial to the firm's founder, was established by his son, John Colina, and his daughter, Karen Colina Williams, president and vice-president of Central Distributors.

All three graduated from MSU. Richard earned a bachelor's degree in engineering in 1936; John received a bachelor's in social science in 1964 and a master's in history in 1966; and Karen earned a bachelor's degree in human ecology in 1970.

"Scholarships are an increasingly popular way to establish memorials," said

Ron D. Laughter, executive director of the Michigan State University Foundation in announcing the new memorial. The foundation has established more than a dozen similar programs in the past year he said. Each is tailored to the desires of the donor.

The Richard Colina Memorial Scholarship is supported by a $62,500 gift to the foundation from the distributorship.

Wayne County students interested in applying for the Richard Colina Memorial Scholarship for the coming school year should contact the Michigan State University Office of Financial Aids. Laughter said.

Banko lauded

One letter received by the Mayor's office came from Art Mapes, who is the branch manager of the Wayne Road office of Security National Bank.

Mapes had this to say: "So many times in our daily lives positive things happen and we fail to give praise.

"I want to thank you and the Ordinance Department, specifically Steve Banko, for cleaning up an eyesore in our city. The lot next to my office has always been overgrown with trees and weeds. A place where muggers could hide. Now it looks like a park."

High Marks

Words of high praise were the order of the day as the Romulus Fire Department received high marks from Metro Airport for their assistance during a building fire on airport property recently.

In a letter to Mayor Beverly McAnally, airport Acting Manager Timothy Ward said in part: "It's indeed a privilege to acknowledge the professional skills demonstrated by your community's fire fighters in their quick response to assist us in containing an already fiercely burning blaze, (July 20). In the event of an emergency, it's reassuring indeed to realize that we can rely on the professionalism of our Romulus neighbors."

New construction

Spiratex Corporation, a plastic extruding firm, is building a new 75,000 square foot facility on Cogswell Road in Romulus. Industrial revenue bonds from the Romulus EDC are in the amount of $2,000,000.

Three new buildings in the Airline Industrial Park between Wick Road and Hildebrandt are underway at a cost of $470,000.

Quality Inn is in the planning stages of erecting a 180 room motel at the Regional Center at a cost of 3.3 million dollars.

'Ladies Only'

Mayor Beverly McAnally has invited the ladies of Romulus and friends to join "your neighbors in an afternoon of fellowship."

The "Ladies Only" luncheon will be held at noon Thursday, Aug. 30, in the courtyard of the Romulus Holiday Inn near the airport.

AAA expands its 'navy'

The whistle isn't quite as loud as mainstays of the fleet, but that isn't cause for concern for officials of the Automobile Club of Michigan, which recently christened the two newest passenger boats for Boblo Island.

The Gibraltar and the Tecumseh sail daily from new dock facilities in Gibraltar for the island amusement park.

The new dock area, which includes parking for more than 500 cars and a covered waiting area for patrons, was developed by AAA to serve Boblo visitors from southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio.

It and the addition of the two 300-passenger paddlewheel-style boats are just a few of the changes the Auto Club has been making in and around the amusement park since buying it last year.

The two boats, which resemble Mississippi paddlewheelers, were constructed at Twin Cities Marina and Dray Dock in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. Although it was late in arriving in Gibraltar, the first to leave, the Tecumseh, on Aug. 8, was filled with cheering park goers.

"We now have our own navy," AAA President Jack Avigone commented after the ceremonial breaking of bottle of champagne on the hull of the Tecumseh. "The addition of these boats brings Boblo's total fleet of passenger carrying vessels to eight."

That fleet includes the most recognized boats on the Detroit River, the SS Columbia and the SS Ste. Clair that have been ferrying people to the site almost since its christening as Boblo in 1929, because of residents' inability to pronounce Bois Blanc properly.

Both the Columbia, built in 1902 by the Detroit Shipbuilding Company of Wyandotte, and the Ste. Clair, built in 1910 by the Toledo Shipbuilding Company, are on the National Historic Registry for the United States.

The two newest ships cost AAA an estimated $300,000 each. They measure 65 feet in length, 22 feet in width and draw 3½ feet of water. It is estimated that they will carry in excess of 1,500 passengers daily to the island.

I christen thee...

With a snip of the scissors and the crash of the champagne bottle against the hull, the Tecumseh, the newest addition to the Automobile Club of Michigan's Boblo Island "navy," was ready for its maiden voyage to the island amusement park. On hand for the Aug. 8 christening ceremonies was AAA president Jack Avigone.

Women of the moose offer college chapter night

Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 1135, recently held their College of Regents Chapter Night.

Thirty-one colleagues from Adrian, Milan, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Wyandotte, Lincoln Park, Ypsilanti and Belleville were present. The special guest was senior regent Betty Wright of Ypsilanti.

At a business meeting on July 23 four members were elected to chairmanships. They were Linda Luscher, Tammy Graham, Pauline Long and Donna Hoffman.

Other activities involving the group were the Aug. 18, men's enrollment, served by the membership committee and an Aug. 21 card party.

A benefit dinner also is being held on Aug. 25 for Patricia Driscoll, with proceeds to go to the McGuire family.

Child Safety Program

New video tapes may save lives

Parents will be able to have a 20-second video tape of their school-aged children, complete with a biographical sketch, in case of a disappearance or kidnapping, as the result of a program being developed by Henco Inc. in cooperation with Telestate Productions.

Henco, known for its fund-raising ideas, has teamed up with Telestate to provide parents through their schools with the video tapes that can be used in the event of an emergency.

Called the Child Safety Program, the videos cost $3.25 per student and are financed through school-wide fund-raising coordinated by Henco, according to Todd Hauter, zone manager for Henco.

"Telestate will be commissioned by the local school to video tape for 20 seconds the student," Hauter explained.

"The voice-over will give the general description, weight, color of eyes, color of hair and school that each student attends."

"Any home information will remain on file and will not be released until the parents sign a permission slip."

Hauter went on to say that in the event of an abduction, Telestate will within "a reasonable time frame," (one to three hours) send the video to local TV stations for immediate broadcast. It also will supply a copy of the appropriate video to the local police department for use during the investigation.

Hauter added that Henco does not promote the idea of door-to-door sales by youngsters for fund-raisers.

Schools interested in the program can contact Hauter, a Romulus resident, at 941-5949.

Gathering at the Brass Bell for a luncheon Saturday were members of her family, including her three daughters, Marjory Bowick, who surprised her mother by flying in from Easley, S.C., Friday evening, Marilyn Lawrence of Livonia, and Virginia Wagner of Belleville; also grandchildren, and great-grandchild Jeremy Lawrence. Others present were friends and members of the United Methodist Women, numbering 60 in all.

On Saturday evening she was again honored with a dinner at Bill Knapps along with Marjory Bowick, Virginia Wagner and granddaughter, Carol Thorne. On Sunday afternoon another celebration for Winifred was held at the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor with Marjory, Marilyn and her husband, Bud Lawrence, Virginia and a niece, Jerry Sparrer, and her husband, Hank, with Claudia and John of Bloomfield Hills.

Following a bountiful picnic dinner, a short business meeting was held and officers were elected — Larry Clayton, president; Dan Grimm, vice-president, Diane Grimm, secretary. Chris Lambert and Ted Clayton had charge of the James and prizes. Next year's reunion will be in Petersburg with Eunice and Richard Vas Binder in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. William Graham of Liberty Street recently received word of the birth of their 10th great-grandchild, a baby girl, born July 27 to their grandson and wife, Constable and Mrs. Mark Malloy of Flin Flan, Man., weight 7 lb. 7 oz.

She has been named Ashley Diana and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rock Malloy of Winnipeg. The senior Mrs. Malloy is the former Grace Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welt and family and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Barraco enjoyed a trip to Cedar Point, Ohio, last Sunday.

The 27,000-ton "fun ship," the TSS Carnivale, was home, sweet home for four days for Mr. and Mrs. James Hoff of Westland. The Hoff's posed for a photograph on the Lido deck of the ship before it sailed from the Port of Miami on a mid-week, four-day cruise of The Bahamas. FLORIDA JUDGE WON'T RELAX DRUNK DRIVING CHARGES

Dear Letter Writer:

I am living in dread fear of going to jail. I can't stay in Michigan, and I can't go to Florida. I need to get a job in one of the two places, and my driving record is keeping me out. Will you write a letter for me that pleads my case and, hopefully, will result in the judge easing up on me.

Sincerely, JW

Dear Florida Judge:

On July 4, 1981, I made a serious mistake and on January 4, 1982, I, again, made a serious error in judgement.

As my record will indicate, I received a ticket for Driving While Intoxicated on July 4, 1981, and was to begin serving a 10-day sentence on January 4, 1982.

This letter is a sincere attempt on my part to undo the damage that has been done thus far and to fulfill my present obligation to the State of Florida. Toward that end, enclosed is my check in the amount of $18, which I understand to be the requisite amount owed by me.

At the time of my hearing and sentencing, I was granted permission from the judge to complete my college graduation exercises prior to serving my sentence and, as the record will indicate, I was to appear on January 4, 1982. In short, the prospect of 10 days in jail terrified me to the extent that I panicked.

I went through a brief period in my life when I was a non-achiever. I have worked very diligently in the recent past to change myself and my goals and values to a point where I am very self-satisfied and pleased with the present "ME." In essence, I have "grown-up."

At the time of my sentencing, I proposed to the judge that I be allowed to put together an advertising campaign to reach young people, who drive while intoxicated in an effort to reduce this major threat to society. I sincerely believe that I am in a position to decrease this problem significantly, drawing on my personal experience as well as my skill in advertising. As is necessary in this type of venture, you must know the product and I certainly do.

Judge, by this letter, I am attempting to make amends. I am, quite frankly, very apprehensive about what your reaction will be to my writing to you, but I wanted to lay my cards on the table and clear this black spot from my record.

I am not the type of person that my present Florida record indicates I am. In short, I am putting myself at your mercy and hoping that a solution can be arrived at that will punish me, without destroying me.

This has been a very difficult letter for me to write and I hope you will receive it in the sincerely apologetic mode in which it is written.

Sincerely, JW

RESOLUTION: The Judge wouldn't budge, and JW had to serve his time.

Surviving grief

Washtenaw Community College is offering a course that teaches "survival techniques to deal with life's changes" this fall.

"Losses and Grieving: How to Come Out the Other Side" (Psychology 222) will give practical methods for coping with the losses we all experience. Because of its popularity when offered last winter semester, the 3-credit course will be given in two sessions this fall. Section I will meet Mondays from 1 to 4 p.m. for the convenience of Emeritus students (those over 60 who may enroll for classes free.) Section II meets Mondays from 6 to 9 p.m.

"Whenever there's change, there's loss; and whenever there's loss, there's change" explained Dolores Hutchinson, instructor and local bereavement counselor. "Everyone suffers losses from the loss of a pet to losing one's job, home, spouse or self-confidence." Combining academic content with group work and discussion, "Losses and Grieving" emphasizes methods for working through the grief and anger that result from loss. Since the class also covers recognizing losses and the therapeutic role professionals can play, doctors, nurses and social workers have enrolled as well as individuals who have recently suffered loss.

A loss support group, which began in last winter's class, also meets on campus each Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Hutchinson holds an MSW from the University of Michigan. Her professional specialties are anticipatory and post-loss grief and medical social work. A consultant social worker for Hospice of Washtenaw, she has spoken on "Community Comment" trained the most recent University of Michigan medical school class in interviewing the elderly ill.

Registration for the class is being accepted through Aug. 31. For further information call the Behavioral Sciences staff at 973-3329.

Unistrut's request should be approved

Big Business vs. middle-class homeowner?

The proposed closing of a one-block area on Elizabeth Street in Wayne at the request of the Unistrut Corp. certainly appears on the surface to resemble a business vs. resident confrontation. Such a view, however, is an oversimplification of a situation that bears significant ramifications for the entire community as well as neighboring areas.

Unistrut officials have petitioned the Wayne City Council to vacate Elizabeth Street between the Conrail railroad tracks and Clinton Street on the south side of Michigan Avenue. Such closing, they point out, would allow the company to enclose four existing buildings, located on both sides of the street, thereby correcting a costly material handling problem.

Several homeowners in the area have objected to the proposal since this street vacation would eliminate their most immediate access to Michigan Avenue. One resident has claimed that the street "belongs to the public" and feels that the neighborhood is being asked to make a sacrifice due to poor planning by Unistrut.

Next month the Wayne City Council is expected to render a decision. No ruling will be accepted without considerable complaint. With this in mind, the council is left with the responsibility of acting in the best interests of the entire city.

They must consider several factors, including: approximately 365 people are employed at Unistrut, which has been a member of the Wayne community for more than 50 years; the company's annual tax bill exceeds $330,000 and the firm is the third largest taxpayer in Wayne; the company is a non-auto related business providing a diversified economic base for the city, and the strong possibility exists that GTE, Unistrut's parent corporation, would move operations out of Michigan if the street is not vacated.

The negative impacts to residents and business owners in the area are a real concern. Closing Elizabeth Street no doubt will inconvenience many persons but the health and safety of the area will not be affected.

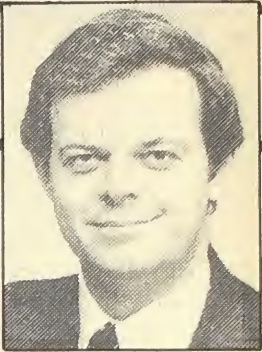

In the interests of the employees of Unistrut and the majority of Wayne residents, the City Council should vote to vacate the one-block area with the understanding that Unistrut will assume the costs of implementing the change.

While local officials will be accused of simply catering to big business, they must act to preserve jobs and a tax base whenever possible. In this case the inconveniences do not compare with the devastating impact that would result from a shutdown of Unistrut.

The council must act to insure the expansion of major business.

Training drivers

The time was 1934, and the young beau rolled up the drive of his fiancée's Upton Avenue home on the west side of Toledo.

He knocked on the door and was greeted by "Midge", ready for her first driving lesson in "Wes'" like-new Ford convertible.

After several loops around the block, and with Midge feeling growing confidence behind the wheel, she came in for a landing. Turning right off Upton Avenue into the drive, she spotted her mother on the porch waiting nervously for her return.

"Hey Mom, look at me!" In that moment of distraction, my mother managed to a) learn a valuable driving lesson — never become distracted behind the wheel, b) ruin my father's car, c) scar forever the stately elm tree that stood beside the driveway, and d) severely bruise her pride, but fortunately little else.

In those days, drivers training classes were not the way folks learned how to drive. Freeways and traffic congestion never envisioned then, however, along with spiraling traffic fatalities, have caused us to get smarter about education of the driver or, as they used to say, "fixing the loose nut on the end of the wheel."

What brings this all to mind is the recent experience of my daughter, Deborah, going through Drivers Ed. at Wayne Memorial High under the guiding hand of John Wood and his brave band.

Frankly, my nerves would not hold up on the highway under a steady diet of road novices. Debbie did great on her final checkout, but my knuckles will probably stay white for at least another month.

As I rode in the back seat, and with John Wood on the passenger side, Deb steered us around the tennis courts, onto Glenwood, and up to Wildwood. John and I have some things in common, as it turns out, and we talked as young Deb (is this possible — my 15 year old is piloting this vehicle?!) drove along, intersected with Cherry Hill, turned left and headed for Canton.

The evenings Deb and I had spent talking about her classroom training, the reading, the tests, the practice on the simulator, the training on the road, and the safety films, raced through my brain. Deb will be fine, I told myself.

"Be sure to stop at that sign, Deb," I casually dropped into the conversation. ("shuddup, Dad", I told myself, "she's been through training! John isn't nervous," I thought. "Of course, he has his foot on the auxiliary brake.")

John is a real pro. He told me about the students far less skilled than Debbie who drift from one side of the road to the other. John, with great control made suggestions to Deb that would improve her driving, and pointed out minor flaws in her performance.

Canton Center Road, "Okay, Deb," John said, "pick up the speed a little, to 45." (I now knew we were going to die!)

Deb continued to show little indication of nervous strain. I, on the other hand, was losing it. "Deb," I said, "watch out for that truck." (I said it with great control, but I was preparing to jump.)

Up Michigan Avenue, John and I continued to chat. She was doing fine. I was counting the blocks left back to the school.

I couldn't help remembering the experiences surrounding my son, Doug's, learning to bob and weave through the moving obstacles of the frenzied highways. My nervous system obviously still had not fully recovered. Doug had nearly worn ruts

Use funds for park

To the Editor:

The City of Belleville is preparing to take bids for the construction of a town square (they call it a plaza) on a half block of Fourth Street between Main and the alley as you look toward Liberty. The cost is estimated to be over $50,000 possibly as high as $60 to $65 thousand.

A mall is most effective when there are shops on either side of the street which is converted to a mall. In this case there are no shops. On one side there is a vacant lot, on the other a brick wall.

The plaza will enhance the beauty of the central business district, its one asset I believe.

I would rather see this same money spent for the acquisition of land for a recreational park within the Belleville city limits.

Sixty thousand dollars will purchase ten acres of undeveloped land that can provide tennis courts, ball diamonds, a basketball court, picnic pavilions and all the amenities for such a park.

There are two, possibly three, such sites in Belleville. One of them that I have investigated is in excess of ten acres and the owner will sell all or part. I have discussed prices with him.

The second site has some advantages over the first. It is not offered for sale at this time but could be purchased under eminent domain.

The use of the "plaza money" for a recreational park has a cash advantage. The Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund will match the $60,000 with another $60,000 for development of the park facilities.

Washtenaw County Parks received $115,500 this summer from this fund to build shelters, picnic pavilions, an irrigation system and a perennial garden in their 128 acre park on Platt Road.

A pretty plaza may not bring thriving business to Belleville nor fill the five store fronts vacated just this year. We are a victim of the big shopping malls.

Recreation is a constant need. The Michigan Park and Recreation Association standard is ten acres of park land for each thousand population. Belleville should have 34 acres. Ten acres would certainly help the total off three we now have.

Two cents worth

To the Editor:

As a concerned parent, I believe that there is an important issue which must be clarified. I am referring to the delivery of the "Westland Eagle."

My son delivers the "Westland Eagle." He earns only 2 cents for every copy he delivers and 25 cents of every dollar he is able to collect. As a parent I am very proud of my son's endeavors. I am proud of all children who are willing to work for some extra money. I believe they learn a respect for work and responsibility and as a result will become better adults.

My son has been threatened by adults in Holiday Park for delivering this paper. I feel this is out of line. As a parent, I would rather have my son out delivering papers then learning how to rip off hub caps, etc. or laying around doing nothing.

Essentially the "Westland Eagle" is a free paper. Advertisers pay for most of the paper. It informs the citizens of Westland about community events and other "happenings." Therefore, I believe the paper provides an important public service.

Although he delivers once a week, only once a month are those receiving the "Westland Eagle" asked for a collection of $1.00 to $1.25. It is not mandatory that this amount be paid. So why the insults?

Isn't it about time to grow up a bit? You don't have to pay for the paper, or read it for that matter, but at least allow a child to earn 2 cents by leaving a paper at your home.

That's my 2 cents.

Parking priority

To the Editor:

I read in the paper a short time ago that the City of Wayne had decided to spend its HUD funds (approximately $100,000) as follows: Municipal parking lot behind Kresge's - $50,000, repaving of downtown brick intersections - $45,000 and $5,000 for distributing aid to the needy in Wayne. It is interesting to note that human need ranks third in Wayne.

It seems that Wayne's number one priority is once again parking. It will not surprise me to read, in the not too distant future, that our annual grant will be used to raze a crumbling parking structure that was never needed and little used (another million wasted) but built anyway. I'm sure the brick intersections, which were poorly constructed, were also paid for with federal funds.

At a time when money from Washington is being cut why is it that what we do receive is so poorly spent? I should think whoever is in charge could put this money to better use. Some cities used their money to up-grade low income homes. Perhaps next year.

Opposes towing

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter that Barbara Taylor, who operates Westland Towing Service, wrote in.

I never said I worked for Mr. Duke. I know him from the company that I worked for which was U.S. Truck Co., which did business with him and still does. Mr. Duke told me that that is his property. He maintains it and pays taxes on it. According to Mr. Duke, the "no parking" sign was knocked down three days earlier.

I am now employed at Anchor Motor Flight Leaseway Transportation in Pontiac. I work days from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. So there is no way I was at her place of business at 3:30 p.m. on 6/14 (copy of time card for that date is enclosed). I do not get home from work until 5:15 p.m. to 5:30 depending on the traffic.

As far as identifying the officer on duty at the police station, I didn't get his name. If I have any more dealings

sue mcdonald speaking

It was two days after the fact, when an alarm went off in my brain. I managed to keep my composure as I weighed what I would tell the judge.

"Well, you see, your honor, it was like this..." The excuses were many, but when it came right down to it, I'd simply forgot. Who could forget a date in court? A birth date, sure; a blind date, maybe; but not a date in court. Nobody does, but I did.

Alas, the situation was resolved, but not for long. A reminder came in the mail to appear in court on Aug. 6. Every calendar I could find... and might see... had a reminder scribbled on it... "Go to court. 9 a.m."

Luckily, I remembered, but I was to find that my forgetfulness isn't so unusual among those called for jury duty. Whatever their reasons, there were quite a few who would be explaining why they missed their date in court.

There's nothing glamorous about being called for jury duty, especially in District Court. It involves a lot of sitting, mostly on benches that have a strong resemblance to church pews — minus the kneelers. They're so much like church pews that your posterior gets sore and you start squirming.

Each one of us had an assigned number, and as I glanced around I recognized a few.

"Hey, isn't that a school board member?"

"Who? Juror 19?"

"Juror what?"

I'd always had this secret yearning to serve on a jury, a spectacular one like the Charles Manson trial. Not because I'd be off work for four months, but for the story potential. We're talking about visions of the New York Times Best Seller List for 29, maybe 30, weeks... "I, the Juror."

To show how much I didn't know about jury duty, I calmly informed my fellow employees I'd be at work by 10 a.m. At noon I'd yet to show and they were beginning to fear the worst. I'd been picked for a jury.

No such luck, both on being selected or being selected for a spectacular case. There's one problem with being called for jury duty in a community you've worked in for years... you know too many people.

Granted being called for jury duty is a nuisance, but it is an education for those who persevere. How many people have had the opportunity to see the judicial branch of government in action?

We started out as a group of people hardly knowing each other, but by 3:30 p.m., when we were excused, it was more like saying good-bye to old friends. You can't sit in close quarters all day without getting to know the person sitting beside you.

By the fourth round of jury selection, we were taking bets on who would be called and who would be chosen. There's a big difference between being called and being chosen, you see.

Potential jurors are called to sit in the jury box by lottery — that's where the number comes in. After brief questioning by the judge, the attorneys take over, and depending on the answer or answers, a juror may be found acceptable or be excused.

It's like the Bible quote of "many are called, but few are chosen."

While I sat there, fidgeting about getting to work, the judge offered an explanation that made me realize why I was there. It wasn't the threat of appearing before that judge to explain why I had ignored the summons, nor was it curiosity (as a journalist, I've sat in on court cases on several occasions).

The reason was simple. Jury duty is the only obligation imposed on U.S. citizens.

At one time there were two obligations; military conscription and jury duty, but with the end of the draft almost a decade ago, only jury duty remains.

It is not something we can chose to do or not to do. So why do so many chose not to do it? Granted, it is a hassle to get off work for the day, to spend hour after hour in a courtroom, but if we are to uphold the principles this country was founded on, it is a necessary hassle.

So for those now receiving their call to duty, accept it. Who knows — you might get the trial I've been dreaming of. If you don't, at least you will have the feeling that the American ideal of a fair and impartial trial with a jury of your peers is alive and well.

By FATHER WILLIAM JOYCE
Chief Chaplain, Inkster Police Department
Pastor Holy Family Catholic Church

Simple living is not as simple as it sounds.

Look at your mail and you begin to think the whole world conspires to complicate our lives. If we could all go "Back to Basics" it would surely make the job of Civil Defense and the Police Auxiliary so much easier.

Simple Living is a movement, a return to the good things of life. There are no dues or subscriptions in this movement. It cannot be organized. That would be a contradiction. News of Simple Living spreads by word of mouth or people just discover it by themselves.

If we lose electricity, or there is flooding or another summer storm, the Inkster Civil Defense has to help all people, but the ones who are not self-reliant need the most assistance. Through Simple Living folks get in the habit of doing for themselves, being less dependent on luxuries and gadgets.

Simple Living makes its impact on law enforcement by making us less greedy. The compulsion to buy whatever is new, whatever is advertised, whatever is a fad, leads — in some cases, — to a compulsion to crime, to theft.

In February of 1982, Detroit Police Officer Frank Semion was shot and killed as he investigated a store break-in. Three teenagers were arrested and convicted. What were they stealing? CUPCAKES! Yes, a life was lost over junk food. I remember the incident because I went to the funeral with the Inkster Police contingent. Sad! Blood was shed over a few plastic bags of Twinkies.

One February weekend I attended a workshop in "Simple Living" at the Kirkridge ecumenical retreat center, located in the Pocanos of Bangor, Pennsylvania. Everything about it was low key. We brought our own bedding, the diet was vegetarian, and there were no lectures or slide presentations. The only agenda was a mutual effort to find ways of making life less complicated. Five "Secrets of Simplicity" came from this effort:

1) MULTIPLE USES — Madison Avenue wants us to buy so many specialized products, yet often a low priced item can serve many purposes. Look at all the cleaning chores that can be done with baking soda or vinegar.

2) SELF-ENTERTAINMENT

— A deck of cards, a game of checkers or chess, a rubber ball and a stick... there are so many ways that family groups can entertain themselves. We do not have to go out and buy an army of toys each Christmas. By the way, whatever happened to those Cabbage Patch Dolls? They are floor mops now.

3) SHARING — Lawn care and snow removal equipment can be purchased on a sharing arrangement among friends. Within a household it is not really necessary to have individual cameras, phonographs, cassette players, etc. We gain so much more by sharing. This is not just economical, there is a spiritual value as well.

4) DON'T ENLIST IN THE FASHION PARADE — Seasonal wardrobe changes, buying new clothing just to be fashionable, is not an essential for anyone. Buy good things, repair them, make them last. Avoid the trendy. This is a common sense approach to clothing.

5) WORLD CITIZENSHIP — There is no political message intended in this phrase. It involves recognition of our God-given dominion of the earth. We are custodians. In terms of world poverty and hunger it is sinful for the wealthiest nations to keep everything for themselves, to waste what is produced, and to pollute the environment. We have to think of the multitudes in poverty before we run off and purchase things for our own vanity and selfishness. The Consumerist Society is not Christian.

These five ideas are not so secret. We just forget them. There are many other things we can do to develop a simple lifestyle. It means having enough guts to resist the pressure to buy every novelty that comes along. It is worth it. We become better people if we return to Simple Living. It is a way to serenity, peace and happiness. Go back to the original design of our Maker and you will find Simple Living. It cannot be purchased but it must be lived.

in the drive backing in and out before he went through Drivers Ed. ("Deb, is this really you, my little girl, behind that wheel?")

She was coming in for her final approach now, up Second Street, onto Ash, a left, and a right, into the parking lot, and stop. "Well, she's in your hands now," John said. Deb was presented with a learners permit. She was pleased and so was her father.

Teachers deserve a lot of credit for doing for our children what they can do more objectively than we can as parents. But driving educators bear a special responsibility of first braving the onslaught with student drivers. Then they must harbor the burden for sending these youngsters out of the nest, to "fly" on their own. In just four short weeks they must try to warn and prepare them for the many dangers that our highways hold.

Deb will now have to practice the craft (at the expense of my nerves) in order to satisfy the driving test examiner at the Secretary of State's office. But I have a feeling John and his crew have launched Deb on a course that will make her eventually a safe and courteous driver.

My hat goes off to John and all the driving instructors at Wayne Memorial (and the world). They deserve our thanks, and a purple heart.

See you next week.

Loss of job

To the Editor:

No one seems to respond to the tear-jerk letter from J. H. (Assoc. Newspapers 6-27-84).

Why did he lose his job as a Senior Sales Engineer? Also why would anyone so grossly under employed not get paid for 6 weeks? And cheated too?

Now he complains to President

Reagan how bad he has it.

There are more people working today than in any time in our history. Unemployment is at it's lowest level in 20 years.

Seems to me his opinion of his skills is not shared by his previous employers! S.K. PULLEN

DREAMSCAPE

A 20th Century Fox release, produced by Bruce Cohn Curtis, directed by Joseph Ruben. Starring Dennis Quaid, Max Von Sydow, Christopher Plummer, Eddie Albert and Kate Capshaw. Now showing at area theatres and drive-ins.

"Dreamscape" may not have the razamataz of an "Indiana Jones" or the spit 'n' polish of a "Gremlins," but it carries with it an element of both. First (and most obvious) is the chase scene (bad guys chase good guy, bad guys get good guy, good guy gets away, etc.) and second is the thought: what would it be like to live out your nightmares?

This film is solidly on science fiction ground, but there's not a space ship in sight; the majority of the action here takes place in the mind — both the characters' and the viewers'.

An agency receiving funds from the government has perfected a method of letting a second person become an active participant in the first's dreams. Dennis Quaid is one of a few able to do this, due to his high ESP (or whatever it's called) level. Another is Tommy Ray, played to psycho perfection by Detroit's David Patrick Kelly ("The Warriors").

Almost as mean and nasty as Tommy Ray is the President's (played by Eddie "Green Acres" Albert) right hand man, featuring a fine performance by Christopher Plummer.

The scene: The president is having nightmares (of a nuclear holocaust, naturally). He tells Plummer that he's so shaken by them, he plans on signing a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union. Plummer doesn't think this is a good idea. He has Tommy Ray kill a woman he's linked to in a dream. He says it's a test. Guess what comes next?

OK, so the plot sort of lays down and tells you what's going to happen, but it's the way it all happens that makes "Dreamscape" stand out. It doesn't slap you in the face, it just sort of nudges you.

The photography in the "dream" sequences are nothing short of fantastic, giving a well, dreamlike effect. This movie may not have them lined up around the block, but it's a film people will be talking about weeks after they've seen it.

As far as the acting, it's first rate, with Kelly the standout performer. Kate Capshaw isn't as interesting as she was in "Indiana Jones," and it seemed to me that some of her scenes were probably cut. Quaid continues his rise to the stardom that should have been his after "Breaking Away," which would have spared him a part in the horrendous "Jaws 3-D."

Anyway, go see this move and see what dreams are really made of.

CAPTAIN NEMO'S

THE BEST!

Pocohontas and Cochise will be competing against each other and other pets for the honor of being the fluffiest pet in the Wayne Old Fashioned Homecoming Festival's Pet Show. Laura Collop, 16, and her nephew, Tommy Falahee, 8, are giving the dogs a fluff test to estimate their chances of winning in the contest.

People, pets, prizes

Is your precocious pooch or fustidious feline the best in their class in your eyes?

If so, then consider the Wayne Old-Fashioned Pet Show to flaunt your pet's virtues.

The contest, open to children under 13, will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 6, immediately following the festival parade at the showmobile on the festival grounds. Pets will be judged in the categories of most unusual, waggiest tail, fluffiest pet and can do the most tricks.

In addition, the show will feature an owner/pet look alike contest, open to youngsters and adults. Haven't you heard how people tend to choose a pet which resembles an owner and how pets start to look like their owners and vice versa after a period of time? This contest may prove there's truth to that statement.

Prizes for the pet show contests are being furnished by the Ford Motor Company's Wayne Truck Plant.

Entries for the contest should be turned in at the festival desk in the Wayne City Hall, located at Sims and Second Street.

the sports meridian

A 'ringer' for the Hall of Fame

Tom Mooradian

There is one sport where if you come close, it counts. And Belleville's Lee Jacobs knows that sport as well as any man or woman in the United States. The sport, of course, is horseshoes. "It is a sport," stresses the 78-year-old Belleville resident who was considered one of the best "pitchers" in the sports' history. Jacobs has won more national and state championships in the field of horseshoe pitching than probably any other. Jacobs has pitched in 59 Michigan Championship meets and won state titles in 1933, 1934 and also captured top Michigan honors in 1944 and 1955. He was state runner-up seven times and was the Greater Detroit champion in the years 1927, 1929 and 1940. For six consecutive years, 1943 through 1948, Lee was unmatched in the sports in this area. His credentials earned him a unique honor. Recently, in Huntsville, Alabama, Jacobs' peers thought so highly of his accomplishments that they placed him in the Horseshoe Pitchers' Hall of Fame. "I'm pleased and honored to be inducted in the Hall of Fame," Jacobs said. "I have played this sport for nearly 65 years and have found it to be as exciting and challenging as any. It is a sport that demands concentration as well as accuracy." Unlike most city dwellers, Lee took up horseshoes at an early age using "real shoes that came off horses." "I was 14 at the time," Jacobs recalls, "and, you can say I was hooked on the sport ever since." Jacobs' first real tournament and test came in 1923 when he competed in a tourney sponsored by the Cincinnati Post. He pitched his first Michigan Championships in 1925 and put together that incredible chain of 59 Michigan championship appearances. On a plaque presented to him for his achievements, it is also stressed that Jacobs organized the first World Horseshoe Pitching Tournament, staged in Duluth, Minnesota in 1927 and he managed to compete in 28 world tournaments altogether. He won the National AAU Championship in 1944. Not only was Lee active as a player, he was also elected to top positions within the organization. He was the second vice-president of the Michigan Horseshoe Pitchers in 1929, and held that office and later became the secretary-treasurer of the Wolverine State Association in 1933, an office he held for 25 consecutive years. On Monday, Jacobs was admitted to Beyer Hospital where he is scheduled for surgery. Jacobs' wife, Helen, says that her husband has had a growth on his lip that doctors want to remove. "But he's in the best of spirits," she adds. In 1940, Lee and his wife, along with Leland Mortenson managed to bring together the best horseshoe pitchers in the world and staged a "World Championship" in Des Moines. Jacobs' efforts also earned for him a niche in the Michigan Hall of Fame (1967), and he was also elected to the Michigan Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame in 1973. While in office, he compiled and partially authored a book called the "Horseshoe Compendium", a handbook and the "Who's Who" in the sport. The manufacturer and owner of Latore Horseshoes since 1946, Lee has the honor of singing the National Anthem to open the world tournaments. Lee Jacobs is "to horseshoes" as Babe Ruth was to baseball. Both have left indelible marks on their beloved sports.

Physicals

If you're planning to try out for the Romulus High girls' basketball team, better get your physical examination out of the way now. School officials caution that all those who wish to compete for Romulus High athletic teams must have physicals before they are eligible to play. No surprises Westland softball playoff favorites have the right stuff

With the regular season behind them, some 40 teams last week launched their bids for Westland Recreation softball playoff championships. And there were no surprises as Chemics kept their title hopes alive by disposing of Van Born 14-1 and Alberta Thomas dumped Bob's Hideaway 11-7 in the first round of the Men's Class B Division. The Chemics, however, couldn't match the over-all power of the Molly McGuires in the second round and suffered a humiliating 23-9 setback, while first round winner, Alberta Thomas, also ran up against a ready-and-willing opponent in Rocco's. Rocco's survived the shoot-out to post a 11-8 victory. The two losers bounced back to remain in the "B" playoffs by posting impressive victories. Chemics blanked Bob's Hideaway 14-0, while Alberta Thomas came away with a 7-0 victory over Van Born. Meanwhile, over in the Women's Class "C" playoffs, everything went right for Westland Lock & Key and Westland Dog Food who claimed lopsided victories over their first round opponents. The Lock & Key club buried 3 Kegs Round 20-8, then moved into the second round of play and dropped a cliffhanger to Westland Dog Food, 6-5. The winners had earlier defeated O'Leary's 6-0. In Class B Women's action, Rocco's scored seven runs to whitewash Old Inn & Out and advance to the second round. In the meantime, the Varsity Club trimmed The No Names 6-0 to force a second round showdown with Rocco's. Rocco's pitching and defense was just too much for the Varsity Club who lost a 5-1 decision. Over in the Men's Class C Division, Wright Place Saloon and Bre-Mar staged one of the better games of the series, but at the end it was the Wright team that prevailed, 5-3. Garden City Garage stopped Studio Lounge 8-3 in their first playoff match-up. While Cagney Conspiracy dealt Paddy's Pub an 8-3 setback. Cagney's Schneider's edged Levan Party Store 6-5 for its first round "C" victory. In the second round, Studio Lounge bounced back to win a 13-5 decision and Paddy's easily handed Levan's Party Store a tournament-outing 12-1 decision.

Belleville softball stars lead East to 3-0 victory over West

Judy Wisniewski, who led Belleville High to an unprecedented second straight Class A state girls' softball championship, and Jill Pence, a member of the history-making Tiger ball club, were in the line-up of the East-West Senior All Stars. The two teams, made up of the best players in the state, played their annual All-Star Game at the Raney Field in Lansing. Wisniewski was the starting pitcher for the East team and went the full three innings allowed for All-Star pitchers. She struck out two batters and gave up one hit to help the East post a 3-0 shutout over their counterparts in the West. Pence was the leadoff hitter for the East and in her first appearance at the plate reached first on a throwing error. She promptly stole second and scored when an attempt to stop her steal of third backfired, the ball soaring into left field. Pence's run apparently was all the East needed to win this prestigious game. However, the East pushed across two more runs in the sixth inning to secure the victory. The two Tigers softball standouts were able to participate in the game of elite high school seniors thanks to local sponsorships. Businesses and individuals contributed to help the players make the trip.

Glenn gridders on GV roster

Among the 104 football candidates that Coach Bob Giesey of Grand Valley State greeted on Monday are two former Westland John Glenn grid standouts. Mike Miller, a line-man, and Craig Thornton, a safety, are seeking starting berths with the Lakers who posted a 4-6 over-all record and a 3-3 mark in the Great Lakes Conference a year ago. The Lakers have scheduled two-a-day drills in preparation for their opener on Saturday, Sept. 1 against Eastern Ill.

Miller's, Domino's, B & R win titles

Canton crowns champs

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Three teams that had "put it all together" during the summer earned Canton Parks and Recreation softball championships. The coveted awards went to Miller's/Rusty Nail, Domino's Pizza, and to B & R TV.

Miller's/Rusty Nail added the Class "A" playoff title to its regular season crown as Manager Mike Steslick's ball club defeated Hunt Trucking in the finale, 6-1.

Earlier, the champs turned back Roman Forum 8-3, and in the first round of playoff competition they posted a narrow 5-4 victory over Hunt's which came the closest to defeating the champs.

Hunt's, the 1983 Class B champions, made it to the finals with some excellent team work. But they couldn't stop Miller's who took a 2-0 lead early in the confrontation, then exploded for five runs in the seventh to break the game wide open.

In the meantime, Domino's Pizza, which captured the Class B regular season title with only one loss, swept through the playoffs and won a 10-2 final over arch-rival, Plymouth Rock II, to claim the playoff championship.

Earlier in the tournament Plymouth Rock dropped a 1-0 cliffhanger to Domino's.

Pitt's, an "also ran" during the regular season, turned into the "Cinderella Team" of the Class B playoffs. Finishing sixth in the regular season, Pitt's pulled two stunning upsets over Nagelston's Big Boy's to make the final three teams.

Manager Keith Nasser parlayed the strong pitching of Russ Shafer and the key hitting of his club to stop Plymouth Rock II. Domino's had earlier defeated Stan's Market 10-0 to advance to the finale, while Plymouth Rock II disposed of Pitt's 24-1 and 4-3.

B & R TV won the Class C men's playoff title with a close 4-3 victory over the Rebels. Manager Ken Opalinski's team strung together five consecutive wins to take the double elimination tournament.

The champs defeated St. Michael, J & J Pub, Grub and the Rebels. Sandwiches between them and the title was also a victory over Ovidon.

The Rebels, which won the Division Three title in the regular season, came to the playoffs with impressive credentials, including wins over Plymouth Booterie, Superbowl Kings, Rusty Nail, and Ovidon. In the process, they also had four one-run games.

B & R TV scored a run in the seventh inning with hits by William Barley and Ken Figley and a key game-winning RBI hit off the bat of Dave Martin broke a 3-all deadlock.

Sixteen teams started the double elimination tournament, and B & R TV capped a fine season with the victory to add to their Division One regular season title.

Greg's grabs Class B title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

League-leading Greg's erupted for seven runs in the first inning but had to fight off a stubborn Middlebelt Bar to win a 10-9 thriller and the Romulus Recreation Class B (Resident) Softball Division championship.

The victory lifted Greg's to a 18-3 won-lost record and out of reach of runner-up, Kerr-Sybron, which finished the year with an impressive 16-5 mark. Bohemian Brothers was third (13-8) followed by Middlebelt which closed the season with a 12-9 record.

Greg's Duane Aschman had his problems on the mound as Middlebelt struck back with Glenn Felfean and Bruce Cyr to score five times in the bottom of the second and take an 8-7 lead after three innings. Greg's managed to seal the victory with a two-run fourth inning.

Mike Sharp and John Schwaglen each homered and Bill Reliaz had three hits for the winners.

In the meantime, Kerr's turned back Ramada Inn 9-1 as the winners banged out 14 hits including three by Bill Musser who had a triple and two apiece by Greg Bell and Keith Stancato.

Mitch's, with a 6-15 record, pulled the upset of the week with a 6-2 win over Kerr's as Guy Paris and Phil Stoudmire each checked in with two hits. Stoudmire stroked a pair of doubles and had two RBIs. He was also the winning pitcher.

Middlebelt built up a 11-1 lead before it coasted to a 13-6 victory over Ramada Inn as Glen Fecteau slammed a homer and singled and mate Bob Tafolla latched on to a single and triple for the winners. Ramada got two singles apiece from Bill Coaltrain and Kevin Collins.

Ed's Sports wrapped up the season with an 8-4 victory over the Bohemian Brothers as Terry Hoffman pounded in four RBIs and had a double and single. Scotty Conodue finished the night with a pair of doubles and a single for the losers.

Greg's blasted 24 hits en route to a 20-5 pastings of the last place Piele Barrel who received a homer from Tim Wimmer and two singles from Tony Caudill.

Chandler—Boatright exchange wedding vows

A candlelight ceremony at Community United Methodist Church in Romulus was the setting for the wedding of Shelley Lynn Chandler and Rick Alan Boatright June 30.

Shelley Chandler
— Rick Boatright

The bride is the daughter of Sheldon and Gloria Chandler of Ozga in Romulus and the groom's parents are Al and Vina Boatright of McBride, also in Romulus.

Rev. Margery Schleicher heard the wedding vows before more than 150 guests at the early-evening nuptials.

Music at the service was provided by Linda Tanner and Elvis Smith with Jack Keelan providing guitar accompaniment for the soloists who performed "Endless Love" and "The Wedding Song." Ada Scott played the church organ for the young couple — as she did at the wedding for the bride's parents more than 27 years before.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown, a floor-length dress of lace and nylon tulle with a bodice of hand-clipped, rose point lace. The scoop neckline was ringed with appliqued lace and the long sleeves ended in the traditional points at her wrists. They nylon tulle skirt veiled a lace-trimmed underskirt. She also wore her mother's fingertip veil which cascaded from a headpiece of nylon tulle and lace trimmed with tiny pearls.

She carried a silk bouquet of white roses and mums highlighted with mauve-colored sweetheart roses arranged throughout the cascade.

Acting as maid of honor at the wedding was Debbie Vennatter of Romulus. She wore a lavender-colored off-the-shoulder styled gown with ruffles at the hem. Lavender carnations highlighted with baby's breath comprised her headpiece which matched the fan of lavender silk roses, carnations and mums that she carried.

Bridesmaids included Patty Goodin of Romulus, a cousin of the groom, and Kathy Boatright, also of Romulus, a sister of the groom. They were gownned in the same style as the maid of honor and carried matching silk bouquets.

Stephanie Brown, 7, a cousin of the groom was the flower girl at the nuptials. She wore a dress styled to match the bridesmaids'. She, too, carried a silk-flower-covered fan and wore lavender ribbons in her hair. Greg Goodin, 4, a cousin of the groom acted as the ring-bearer for the couple and David Brown, 9, was the candlelighter at the ceremony.

Rex Boatright of Romulus, a brother of the groom, assumed the duties of best man at the wedding. Ushers and groomsmen included Aaron Chandler of Kentucky and Corey Chandler, both brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a lavender street-length dress with white accessories and a lavender corsage of roses and baby's breath. The mother of the groom also wore lavender, in a shade lighter than the bride's mother. She, too, wore a corsage of lavender-colored roses accented with baby's breath.

Following the exchange of their wedding vows, the couple were honored at a reception at UAW Hall 900 in Wayne.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Romulus High School and graduated from Schoolcraft College in 1983. She is employed as an administrative assistant at CBS/Fox Video in Farmington Hills.

The groom is a 1979 graduate of Romulus High School and attended the National Institute of Technology. He is employed at Xerox Corp. in Southfield.

Special guests at the wedding included grandparents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Koester, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Greca and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Boatright, along with a great-aunt of the bride, Ellen Doester and a great-great-aunt of the bride, Agnes Harnet of Canada. The couple honored these guests with flowers before the ceremony.

The newlyweds traveled to the Smokey Mountains for a week-long honeymoon and now reside in Livonia.

Don't wait for a problem to get your family's eyes checked.

vision center

You get your teeth checked regularly. And without fail, remember to get your kids' booster shots. Yet, most people don't stop to take care of their family's eyesight until there's a problem.

The truth is, your eyes can change in a matter of months. That's why a regular eye exam is so important. It helps keep your eyesight sharp. And it can correct a little problem before it becomes a big one.

August Is Family Eye Care Month At Pearle.

At Pearle we care enough about your eyes to set aside every August as Family Eye Care Month. It's our way to remind you and your family of the importance of regular eye exams. And to help you remember your checkups, we'll give you The Family Health Record booklet.

So you'll always be on top of your dental appointments, physicals—and from now on, your yearly eye exam.

After all, there are so many beautiful things to look at every day. Make sure you're seeing them the way they're meant to be seen.

Nobody cares for eyes more than Pearle.
